Please I need your urgent help. I updated my laptop with Windows 7 Pro and Windows update downloaded some software updates. I wanted to install them because my computer does not run very efficiently and I have noticed that my computer needed a newer motherboard, hard drive, and ram. So I went to the Windows update and downloaded the motherboard and hard drive drivers. It completed successfully and I restarted my computer. The first time I loaded windows my computer wouldn't load up and I turned it off and booted in safe mode. I managed to open up my computer and see my screen properly but it said that my computer had an error, and I would need to do a system restore. So I clicked on the system restore option and it started loading and stopped at 0% at the check disk part when it said that it was attempting to restore my windows. I clicked cancel and when it had finished loading I logged in with my password but my screen had changed to this: -[handwritten] f2 -[handwritten] f3 - a red circle with an exclamation mark - [clock
